

Abstract Of The Disclosure

Method for detecting a signal, particularly a voltage, for example a battery voltage, having the following steps:

- measuring the signal and/or the battery voltage at a predefined sampling rate,
- storing the measured measurement values in a buffer memory, and
- forming a median value of the stored measurement values in a time-slot pattern slower than the sampling rate to obtain an averaged value.

5

448553

10074432-021202